

Present on purpose

Global Institute
of Training and Presenting gitp.com.au

3 Day Neuropresenting[®]
Certification
Presenting with the brain
in mind

Present on Purpose

Would you like to be a world class presenter? Would you like to present with clarity, confidence and charisma?

GITP is raising the standards for presenters and trainers across the globe.

Present on purpose/neuropresenting is a one of kind programme.

The professional development course in Neuropresenting® is the leading edge, brain-friendly, professional development programme for purpose-driven presenters and trainers. Are you looking for that presentation edge to be able to deliver powerful presentations or training sessions that create real change? Perhaps you need the knowledge and skills to be able connect and engage with your audience quicker and at a deeper level to be more influential?

Neuropresenting® is a powerful blend of professional presenting, adult learning, advanced communication skills, influence and neuroscience principles - It's all about presenting with the brain in mind.

This programme is for those who aspire to be world class, premier, purpose-driven presenters.

If you are a workplace presenter, trainer, sales presenter, busy executive, professional speaker, business owner or workshop leader, the Neuropresenting programme will enhance the way you design, plan and deliver any presentation. You will be presenting and connecting with the brain in mind

Powerful presenting is leading out loud

Our Neuropresenting® programme is a highly interactive course designed to equip you with many engaging and brain-friendly methods to present your message to a diverse range of clients and audience members.

Our Neuropresenting® method/course was also accredited as an Australian Diploma qualification 2016.

Poor presentations are costly for any organisation

Programme Lead Facilitator: - Paula Smith is a communication and presentation skills expert. Professional speaker, master trainer, author and business leadership consultant, Paula is also the leading expert in Presentation Intelligence®. She holds the CSP (Certified Speaking Professional) designation from the National Speakers Association - Only a small handful of global professional speakers hold this designation. Paula's rich professional experience, solid academic qualifications and her dynamic and infectious personality makes Paula the perfect person to lead this innovative professional development journey.

A powerful presenter presents with the brain in mind

Neuropresenting®

Presenting is art, science and practice - To be a powerful presenter you need to master all 3

Master class topics

- 14 'Neuropresenting® Principle's for trainers and presenters
- Presentation Intelligence®
- Explore the learning brain
- Brain-friendly learning environments
- Presentation design using 'Neuropresenting® Principles'
- Advanced presentation delivery
- Platform skills
- Presenting art and science
- Adult learning theories and practice
- Crafting and delivering powerful stories that matter
- Innovative thinking practices and thought leadership
- NLP and the world we live and learn in
- Workshop and Keynote craft
- Methodology magic
- Presenting to media
- Your authentic presenting style
- Speaking influence
- Confidence, connection and charisma

Presenters who develop this knowledge-base and set of skills will be able to:

- Develop client-centric presentations using our 'Neuropresenting® Principles'
- Create and deliver powerful training or presentations using high-level engagement strategies
- Apply current adult learning theories and practices to create real behavioural change
- Leverage neurolearning expertise to think critically and develop innovative presentations
- Present with clarity, confidence and skill
- Receive a professional certification as a GITP Neuropresenter® giving you a competitive advantage

gitp
Global Institute
of Training and Presenting

Certified Neuropresenter

Book an in-house immersion for your organisation or register for one of our open programmes

Powerful and effective presenting is one of the most profitable skills in modern business

NEUROPRESENTING®

A 3-day master class experience for purpose-driven presenters, trainers and workshop leaders using world-class Neuropresenting® and Presentation Intelligence® methods

TAKE YOUR PRESENTING SKILLS TO NEW HEIGHTS

PLACES ARE LIMITED IN EACH MASTER CLASS

Participants will:

- Attend the 3-day presenting immersion master class
- Develop high level skills in designing and delivering powerful brain-friendly presentations
- Be participating and contributing to high level discussions around thought leadership, influence and leading out loud.
- Have ample opportunity to present, and receive expert and peer feedback

Are you ready to speak out?

Register now - Limited Places

$ 2,995 per person - Open programme

$2,450.00 special early bird price

Perth, Sydney, Singapore, London

In-house immersion - Minimum of 6 participants

Contact

paulasmith@gitp.com.au

www.gitp.com.au